Margaret Ward : Female Occupations: Women's Employment from 1850 - 1950 (Family History) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Female Occupations: Women's Employment from 1850 - 1950 (Family History):

The entries in this book are based on an encyclopedic approach, each full of interest and information, as they chart the steadily evolving status of women and the job opportunities open to them. Female Occupations is aimed especially at family historians, and contains over 300 entries. Each of these has some explanation of what the job entailed, the historical setting, and examples or stories of women who were involved with it.
