Amanda Dear has been in recruitment since 1988, and has billed in excess of 1.6m in fees. She has coached countless candidates to successful careers, and worked with numerous clients to get the right person for the job. In this guide, Amanda will help with an area that is often under-trained: how to interview candidates. Many job interviewers are thrust into the role, ill-prepared and unaware of what to do. As a result, many may waste valuable time, and money, interviewing ineffectively. It's not their fault, that just haven't been trained to do something that is absolutely essential to the recruitment process. This simple, plainly-written guide will help to fill that knowledge gap, and offer the interviewer a wealth of ideas, case studies, and practical advice on interviewing candidates, with the purpose of getting the right person for the role. Also suitable for experienced interviewers, who can consolidate their skills.
