Worth it's weight in goldBy IbrahimIf you were looking for from this book is a secret that will help you get over any potential hurdles you face (or have already made) this book probably ain't for you. There are no secrets in (nor does the author claim there to be) this book just demystifies and puts into context the application process at top universities, its very broad. The insights from deans of admissions from top schools are also tremendously useful. So many people rule themselves out before the ever stand and this books really helps you guage if not your chances, but your potential. Great buy.3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Too muchBy Andrei PopescuIt has way too much information. This is a clear case where more is actually less. I personally recommend Avi Gordon's book.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. What the Experts are Saying: This is a great book. Its sophisticated and comprehensive, but easy to understand. Its a terrific resource for each step of the application process. Its also completely current and relevant. In fact, I always encourage my new hires to read it. Rose Martinelli, Associate Dean for Admissions, University of Chicago Graduate School of Business An excellent (and very thorough) information source for anyone applying to MBA programs. Applicants will especially benefit from all the straightforward, honest advice from admissions directors. Its clear, its direct, its engaging and it will lead to better applications. Sharon J. Hoffman, Associate Dean and Director of the MBA Program, Stanford Graduate School of Business How to Get into the Top MBA Programs is unquestionably the best book on the subject. -- Marjorie DeGraca, Director of Admissions, Haas School of Business (University of California, Berkley) This is a wonderful, comprehensive, and thorough analysis of how to get into a top MBA program. The advice and information are extraordinarily useful in helping you understand, assess, and maximize your options. It is highly recommended for both American and international programs. Linda Meehan, Assistant Dean for Admissions and Financial Aid, Columbia Business School About the Author Richard Montauk is the author of How to Get Into the Top Law Schools and How to Get Into the Top Colleges and the founder and president of Degree of Difference, a firm that has helped thousands of applicants get into the worlds top business and law schools.
