

[Ebook pdf] How to Pay for Your Undergraduate Degree in Business Related Fields, 2015-2017 (How to Pay for Your Degree in Business and Related Fields)

How to Pay for Your Undergraduate Degree in Business Related Fields, 2015-2017 (How to Pay for Your Degree in Business and Related Fields)

Gail A. Schlachter

*ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC / audiobook

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#4626713 in Books 2015-03-01 Original language: English 11.00 x .57 x 8.50l, #File Name: 1588412547252 pages | File size: 26.Mb

Gail A. Schlachter : How to Pay for Your Undergraduate Degree in Business Related Fields, 2015-2017 (How to Pay for Your Degree in Business and Related Fields) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised How to Pay for Your Undergraduate Degree in Business Related Fields, 2015-2017 (How to Pay for Your Degree in Business and Related Fields):

Getting your degree in business or related fields is expensive. It can cost $100,000 or more just to complete a bachelors degree, and that amount or more for a masters and doctoral degree. Thats more than most students can afford to pay on their own. Fortunately, hundreds of financial aid programs are available to help students prepare for a career in business or a related field. How to Pay for Your Undergraduate Degree in Business Related Fields is unlike any other financial aid listing. Not only does it provide the most comprehensive coverage of business-related funding opportunities for undergraduate students (more than 800 entries), but it also offers the most informative program descriptions (on the average, twice the detail found in any other source). In addition, only funding set aside for high school seniors, high school graduates, current college students, and returning college students working on a degree in a business-related field is included. If a program doesnt support study, training, research, or creative activities for these students, it is not covered here. Third, only the biggest and best funding programs are described in this book. To be listed here, a program has to offer undergraduates working on a degree in business or related fields at least $1,000 per year. The majority offer considerably more than that, paying up to $25,000 annually, or covering the full cost of college attendance. Even better, all of this is "free" money; not one dollar will ever need to be paid back (provided, of course, you meet the program requirements). Fourth, you can take the money awarded by these funding programs to any number of locations. Unlike other financial aid directories, which often list large numbers of scholarships available only to students enrolled at one specific school, all of the entries in this book are "portable." Another plus: many of the programs listed here have never been covered in other print or online financial aid resources. So, even if you have checked elsewhere, you will want to look at this directory for additional leads. Fifth, unlike other funding directories, this listing helps you target your search for ways to pay for your business-related degree. You can look for funding opportunities not only by program title, but also by sponsoring organization, business specialty, where you live, where the money can be spent, diversity characteristics, and even deadline date. Plus, weve included exactly the information youll need to decide if a program is right for you: purpose, eligibility requirements, financial data, duration, special features, limitations, number awarded, and application date. You even get telephone and fax numbers, e-mail addresses, and web sites, along with complete contact information, to make your requests for applications proceed smoothly.